ADVERTISING IN DULL TIMES.—The Milwaukee Wisconsin relates the following: "After the crash of '57, when everybody was almost scared to death and the croakers predicted that the country had gone to smash, a dry goods house was opened in this city, which proceeded on the principle that in order to reach the hoarded money in the pockets of the people the proprietors must sell at very reasonable prices and advertise very largely. They worked vigorously upon this principle. Their brother merchants who did not advertise predicted that the new comers would be ruined, as they paid too much for advertising. Nevertheless, they persisted. In a single year they paid five hundred dollars in to the Daily Wisconsin for advertising, and at the end of seven years they retired from business with a fortune of one hundred thousand dollars, while other merchants on the same street, some of them opposite their store, have failed."

We remember a similar instance among our own advertisers in the panic of 1857. A merchant continued his advertisement in our columns throughout the whole period of stagnation, and notwithstanding many predictions that "it wouldn't pay." His testimony afterward was that his sales were steady and his profits satisfactory, while many a merchant around him, who "couldn't afford to advertise," saw his clerks stand idle behind the counters.

A financial panic does not mean that no one has any money. There is plenty of money in the country, and those who heard it are just the ones to be eager for the "bargains" which a fall in prices holds out. But to buy they must know where to buy, and the merchant who tells them will receive their cash.—N. Y. Evening Post.

AN ANECDOTE OF THE PANIC.—"How do you get along?" said a wife to her husband, in the midst of the panic, "O, I shall weather the storm, but I wish I had only a few hundred dollars more." "Don't you wish you had married a rich wife?" said she, in a teasing way; then, going to her room, she returned with rather more than the amount required in United States bonds. "Why, where in the world did you get this?" said the husband. "Well, my dear, you went to a champagne supper seven years ago, and on your return, finding navigation around the room rather difficult, deposited hat, shoes, and a large roll of bank-bills on the carpet. I put the money away and waited three weeks for you to inquire if I had seen it, when finding you were ashamed to do so, I invested it, and here you have it."

If he was a poor navigator, he chose a good "mate" and pursuer.

COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA.

To the Sergeant of Alexandria: Greeting: We command you to summon The Alexandria and Washington Railroad Company and Samuel M. Shoemaker to appear at the Clerk's office of the Circuit Court of the city of Alexandria, at the Rules to be held for said Court, on the first Monday in October, 1873, to answer a bill in chancery exhibited against them in the said Court, by The Washington and Ohio Railroad Company, and unless they shall answer said bill according to law, the Court will take the same for confessed, and decree accordingly. Witness, Morton Mayne, Clerk of our said Circuit Court, at the Court House aforesaid, the 4th day of September, 1873, and in the 8th year of the Commonwealth.

MORTON MARYE, Clerk.

The object of this suit is to recover from the defendants a debt of $304.34, with interest from the 28th day of May, 1869; also a debt of $512, with interest from the 28th day of May, 1869; and to attach and subject the interest of the defendant, Samuel M. Shoemaker, who is a non-resident of the State of Virginia, in the capital stock, road and equipments of the said railroad company, and all other estate belonging to and debts due to said Shoemaker, to the payment of the debts due to the complainant as aforesaid.

J. M. TAYLOR, P. 4.

[Return of Sergeant.]

Not finding the President, Treasurer or any Director of the Alexandria and Washington Railroad Company, executed the return of said bill, and delivered a copy of the same at the said railroad company's office in the city of Alexandria, Va., on the 4th day of October, 1873, to T. B. Boone, agent of Alexandria and Washington Railroad Company.
